ABOUT SCIENCE OLYMPIAD AT UC SAN DIEGO

INSPIRING THE NEXT GENERATION OF SCIENTISTS

Science Olympiad at UC San Diego is a student-led organization dedicated to expanding access to engaging, high-quality STEM experiences for middle and high school students.

Each year, hundreds of students come to UC San Diego to compete, collaborate, and explore science through hands-on events spanning biology, chemistry, physics, engineering, earth science, and more. Our tournaments are organized by UC San Diego students who write exams, develop laboratory activities, supervise engineering challenges, and coordinate hundreds of volunteers.

For our competitors, Science Olympiad is more than a competition. It is an opportunity to pursue subjects they love, discover new areas of STEM, and see themselves as the scientists, engineers, researchers, and innovators of the future. We believe cost should never stand between a student and an opportunity to explore science. With the support of our sponsors, we can keep these experiences accessible to the schools and students we serve.

MORE THAN A COMPETITION

Our tournaments bring together students, coaches, families, volunteers, and members of the UC San Diego community for an immersive day of STEM exploration. Competitors might identify organisms, solve forensic mysteries, analyze experimental data, construct engineering devices, or put months of preparation to the test.

Behind every event is a team of UC San Diego students committed to creating an experience that is challenging, welcoming, and memorable. By connecting K–12 students with a major research university, we hope to show young scientists that there is a place for them in STEM and give them a community in which their curiosity is celebrated.

IN 2026–2027, WE'RE BRINGING BOTH MIDDLE AND HIGH SCHOOL SCIENCE OLYMPIAD TO UC SAN DIEGO.

Division B (middle school) • Division C (high school)
